Funny Show at the Toronto. Manager Robinson, of the Hanlan's

Manager Robinson, of the Haman's Point amusements, opened the season last night with an exceptionally strong program, which on account of the cool threatening weather was played to a small audience. The chief attraction on the bill was Emil Gautier, a French equestrian, and his trained horses. Gautier put the animals through a wonderful performance upon a small platform.

Another exhibition of animal training was Herbert's dog circus. After the whole troop of animals had gone through a clever performance a small dog ran up a perpendicular ladder 40 feet high and dived into a blanket. Judge, a balancer. climbed a high and unsupported ladder and retaining his equilibrium on the top played musical instruments. It was a very dangerous trick, but it went without a hitch.

IRWIN BEATS THE BARONS.

Gaston Pitches a Beautiful Game-No Change in the League Standing

Anathema. Who is it that's so deadly slow That weeds around the bases grow While round the course he strives to go Why, Brouthers!

Who is it, hired to hit the ball, Has never hit the sphere at all, Or where into a hand 'twould fall? Why, Brouthers!

Who is it makes a mighty bluff. Yet never justifies his puff? Who tries to eatch and makes a muff Why, Brouthers!

Who is it, in his doting terror, To stop a ball, a swift wayfarer, Will let it pass for Gatin's error? Why, Brouthers!

Who is it makes the rooters weep, Or mutter curses loud and deep, And hint he's kept because he's cheap? Why, Brouthers!

The poem above was contracted for and delivered before yesterday's game. Had that not been the case, it would have been held for a day or two at least. Brouthers had no inkling of what was coming unless he is one of these wizard mind-readers; yet he went out yesterday and did make a hit, and followed up with a homer which proved to be the winand did make a hit, and followed up with a homer which proved to be the winning run in the Wilkesbarre-Toronto game. And all this time he made not the semblance of a muff on first base, it might be said that at the home run stage Dan was the most surprised man in the business, which says much. Rumor has it that he has not recovered the shock yet. However, if Brouthers continues this work we will issue tenders for a poem, the first verse of which must be built in this fashion:

Who is it knocks the baseball silly. And holds down first bag like a dilly, And runs the bases like a filly? Why, Dan Brouthers.

The game at the Island yesterday was a beautiful exhibition. Even if Toronto had been beaten, there would have been not much of a kick coming, but Toronto did not lose, and the most dyspeptic fan couldn't find anything about which to make a complaint. The game, with the exception of a fumble by Atherton, was errorless, and, besides, it was brilliant.

Duggelby is about the best visiting pitcher seen in Toronto this season. He was in the Interstate League last year, and was secured at the end of the scason by Mahager Irwin, but never actually played in Toronto. He was drafted by Philadelphia and pitched a few games in the National, at which he did very well. But the Phillies seem to be in the business to lose games, so Duggelby was farmed to Wilkesbarre. He pitched a beautiful game yesterday, but was not quite as good as Gaston.

The game was played and won in this fashion: Wilkesbarre started right in at the opening and the first man up scored. Goeckel made a hit, a beautiful bunt, and stole second. Holligan went out, but Sullivan hit and Goeckel scored. Not another run was made until the fifth innings, and then Toronto made three. Gaston got to first on an error. Casey. Grey and Fox singled, and three runs came in.

In the seventh Goeckel made a three-bagger, and was sacrificed home.

In the eighth each team made a run. For Toronto, Dan Brouthers put the ball over the right field fence for the first time for him this season. Wright got to base on balls and scored on Richter's two-bagger.

The fight went on until the last man died. It was one of the most interesting finishes that one could well imagine.

Now that Wilkesbarre has been with us a bit, we may with some reason say a word about the Barons. There are three or four men on that team who would look well in a Toronto uniform. Goeckel on first is the best man in that position in the Eastern League. Besides, he bats well and is an ideal captain. We would trade two Broutherses for him. Then we might trade third basemen, for Richter is very good and he hits better than Fox. He is really an outfielder, but can play any place in the field.

eid. Then Duggleby is better than any of Then Duggledy is better than any of our pitchers, except Gaston, and perhaps williams, when the latter is in shape. There is not another player that we would exchange for any of the Wilkesbarre Barons.

The game was the shortest this season, lasting only an hour and three-quarters. Gaston is the slowest pitcher in the business—that is, as far as preliminary preparations go. Yet the game was short.

There was a twelve-innings game in Rochester yesterday between Springfield and Rochester. At the end the score was five all, and the game was a tie, Amole lost the game for Buffalo, and Providence won by five runs to two. Syracuse beat Montreal yesterday by 4 runs to 2. Lush played for Syracuse, The standing in the Eastern League now is:
